

Exami

Executive Summary

The ina

Employers would see the most glaring flaw in these proposals as the e

Int

In Immigration for Shared Prosperity

each of these cas

comprised of five independent econo

Discussing the U.K.'s Migration Advisory Commission's recent selection of "shortage occupations," a paper by the Forum for Expatriate Management concluded:

The list . . . did not reflect the realities of talent selection within a global organisation. There was also concern that the admin

Endnotes

1