Seminar Details

The tragic events of September 11th will have many short-term and long-term effects on the immigration field. This telephonic seminar will focus on the important points detailed below. The attorneys and others presenting the seminar are doing so pro bono. ILW.COM is offering the series at-cost. This is not a venture to make money, but a service designed to assist attorneys to cope with the immigration aftermath of the events of September 11th. The seminar is co-sponsored by the American Immigration Lawyers Association and the Committee on Immigration and Nationality Law of the Association of the Bar of the City of New York.

The seminar series consists of 3 seminars of 60 minutes each. Those who sign up now will receive tapes of the first session on September 28th and the second phone session on November 2nd. People who sign up now will be able to attend the third phone seminar live, it is scheduled for January 4th. The intention is that the third seminar, coming after Congress has adjourned for the year, will allow a fuller analysis to be presented to attorneys. The total cost for the entire seminar series is $99. Several people can share the cost by sitting around a speaker-phone, however only one password will be provided per sign-up. An email list-serv will supplement the seminar to facilitate additional information exchange (including Q&A).
